Sunita Gloster

For Making a Feminist Difference in Media/Communication

Sunita Gloster is an advisor to UN Women Australia (UNWA), and the driving force behind the gender equality campaign that asked #whenwillsheberight?

#whenwillsheberight became synonymous with the rising anger against violence to women, the breaking stories of harassment, and the marches.

It continues to be used today calling out injustice and inequality.

Sunita is an internationally experienced executive leader with almost 30-years experience across professional services with a focus on media, marketing, technology and advertising.

Sunita is a leader, a writer, a public speaker, a mentor, a mother, and an advocate for gender equality. She is a feminist who drives action for the status of women in her field of expertise.
